

Bill Scheftic

Global Change Master Directory:
<http://gcmd.nasa.gov/>

An expansive community listing of various types of climate related data from many different organizations. This site will give a description of each dataset and a link to help you get to the data. This site is good for cataloging almost anything that is out there and is related to climate. It is not a site that distributes data, it is merely a way to find data that is at other sites.